Mrs. Kimberly Tringali is the VPK Director and VPK/ PK4 teacher at St. Charles Borromeo School. She has been a faculty member since 2007.

Mrs. Tringali received her education at Mount Ida College in Newton, Massachusetts earning a BS in Business Management. After moving to Florida in 2003, Mrs. Tringali went back to school to earn her VPK certifications, and teaching certificate. Mrs. Tringali holds a Florida Professional Teaching Certificate in Early Elementary PK- 3rd grade, VPK Director Certificate along with a VPK teaching certificate. She has attended Kagan workshops, early learning conferences along with receiving her Catechetical certification through the Diocese of Venice.

Mrs. Tringali' philosophy of teaching is students learn best through hands on activities with manipulatives, story cards, puppets, and experiments. Mrs. Tringali creates an enthusiasm for learning and brings excitement into the classroom. Her favorite part about teaching is to be able to make a difference in a child's life and nurture them in faith.

Mrs. Tringali lives happily in the "Sunshine State" with her husband, two children and her black lab Hannah.
